I see that you have changed some code in file 'include.general.inc'. You are not supposed to do that. You only change the files that you are directed to change in the installation instructions. Please reload 'include.general.inc' from the downloaded zip file and try again.

If that still causes a problem then place the following line:

echo $include_path;

just before the line:

unset($include_path, $include_std, $regs);

Your include_path directive is not being set correctly, and I want to see what is causing it.
