Tony,

I've also noticed that when I look at the data being stored in session_data in the php_session table the amount of session data does not seem correct after I go to the help screen (as though not all the session data is being saved for the full stack of pages). [I don't really know what I'm talking about here though]. I was checking what the data looked like compared to using the menu application which seems to work correctly.

I then noticed the following, and I'm not sure whether it's related. In the menu app I click on the User List, then select a user to update. If I now visit the help page and then return, I go back to the list page rather than the user I was updating.

Not sure if this is a useful observation, or a red herring.
