Hi,

I have just come across RADICORE and am not a coder but an IT administrator. I have searched the RADICORE and Marston sites, and the Forums for 'LDAP', but have found very few references.

LDAP is often used for something similar to RBAC, and many web applications implement some form of LDAP support for access and control.

What is the relationship between, or potential relationship between, RADICORE's Menu and Security sytem and a directory that implements an LDAP interface (such as Active Directory)?

Thanks

Dennis
