I am about to improve my SQL skills as you adviced. I think I now know my fault. The difference between your xample application and my application is that in your xample application only entries are shown with tree_level_id = 1. In my application there are entries shown with tree_level_id 1 and greater. That is why I see everything twice.
Can you tell me where I have to look for if I made the correct selection? Is it in a class or in a relationship?
