Just when I thought I was nearing the surface...wirlpool!...and back under water. I am probably going to need to learn about Petri Nets now too to make some workflows, and figure out which transaction patterns to use for them.

I am overwhelmed, but also completely in awe at the complexity of this system you have put together. I only hope that I will can hang in there to get something working.