Subject: Re: LIST2 + UPD4 + ADD4 FAILS
Posted by AJM on Thu, 14 Apr 2016 09:28:46 GMT

The only limitation of using header('Location: ...') to jump to another script is that the current script must not have written any output, such as with echo, otherwise it will output an error message saying something like "headers have already been sent". Is this the message you are getting?

It is therefore perectly acceptable to use the header() function in a script which does not produce any HTML output.