Thank you for your information and for your ideas about solving such a problem. It is very logical. But unfortunately it is a little bit too much for me at the moment. I am about to understand always more the way your framework works but to create these tasks is too much for me at the moment. That's why I will suspend this problem until I am even more familiar with the method Radicore works.

Moreover I designed my code always the other way round (in ObjectPal). I created the parent record and then called popups to select these child records which I wanted to insert. That makes it a little more difficult for me.

I will come back to your proposed method as soon as I am ready.
