Hi Toni,
I want to create a new application and I am not sure how to handle this best. I have one application under www.htmanager.de. Now I want to create a new System/Subsystem under www.hartz.biz. Can I integrate this system as subsystem in my existing environment? Even if it is in a different domain? As far as I understand your system, the prefix is relevant to distinguish and I only have to get connection to the databases, isn't it?
If yes, do I have to consider something special in the config file?
