What is this line?

```
$fieldarray['sel_publish_key'] = $_SESSION['san_filelist(multi4)']['sel_publish_key'];
```

I have never suggested that you use anything like this.

The contents of 'sel_publish_key' in the outer entity will not appear in the inner entity until AFTER the navigation button has been pressed. The contents of the $_POST array will then contain a single occurrence from the outer entity, plus one or more occurrences from the inner entity. A field in the $_POST array for the outer entity will not be merged with the data for the inner entity UNLESS a field with that name is found in the inner entity's $fieldspec array.

In order to get the value for 'sel_publish_key' included in the selection string which is passed from the inner entity to the UPDATE4 function you will need to add 'sel_publish_key' to $pkey_array in the _cm_getPkeyNames() method of the inner entity.
