Hello

In the latest 1.26 version the menu-schema.sql does not have a line that creates the menu database.

Am not sure if I am missing something.

Wonder if I should be creating this database and then use the menu-schema.sql, unlike the others (dict, audit etc)

Thanks
Hari

That is correct. I use phpMyAdmin to generate all my sql scripts, and this does not automatically include the 'create database x' line by default. Sometimes I remember to put this line in, but sometimes I forget.

It should be no big deal create the database manually, select it, then load and execute the script which is relevant to that database.
