This does not cause any problem and it appears to have been removed in some subsequent version and is not present in the latest version.

What is the purpose of phpinfo.php file in the installation - is it necessary once Radicore is installed or is it necessary when designing applications on it?

The phpinfo.php file is not necesary. I just put it there so that I can run it on my installation to see what's what. You can delete it if you wish.
