Subject: List Audit Details for an Object (Audit Trail) question
Posted by martin on Wed, 14 Jun 2006 14:44:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi,

If I go to one of the applications in the demo, for example the prototype 'Example System', and then click the 'Person' menu button and then the 'Audit Trail' navigation button it will display the 'List Audit Details for an Object' LIST3 form and the Key field will be blank and the scrollbar would be
<<FIRST <PREV (Item 1 of 2) NEXT> LAST>>.

Is this correct behavior? It goes against the normal behavior so far when clicking a navigation button without selecting any data rows displays the message 'No parent has been selected yet' and the form you wanted to access is not displayed.

Is it so that in this case you want to be able to see the form anyway, to be able to scroll through the middle table AuditTbl, which now shows a scrollbar with all audit log entries available?

Subject: Re: List Audit Details for an Object (Audit Trail) question
Posted by AJM on Wed, 14 Jun 2006 20:20:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The behaviour you describe is not correct. The message "No parent has been selected yet" should be displayed under those circumstances. It is a simple fix that will be included in the next release.